Peoria, Illinois – Civisync, a comprehensive and up-to-the-minute web listing of Peoria Metro events, is slated to launch in June.

Information will be available via web, mobile and print and divided into the categories of ARTS, TUNES, EATS, SPORTS and FLIX.

Founder Jake Hamann says that unlike other portals, none has ever existed to this extent and benefits the public as well as businesses and organizations. "Civisync is an easy way for those living or visiting the community to search, locate and most importantly create a personal calendar of things to do in the Peoria Metro Area," he says. "For providers of these services (such as artists, musicians, restaurants, etc.), Civisync serves not only as a comprehensive directory and event listing but also a place for businesses and individuals to promote themselves as well as interact with each other." A basic listing for providers is free; however, varying levels of paid memberships are available that offer enhanced features such as photo galleries, videos, user ratings, unlimited calendar entries and more.

Civisync will combine calendar events from each category into a centralized location, where users can then add them to their own personalized online calendar and have the ability to export, or "sync" that calendar to their computer and/or mobile device. This service will be free to all consumers.

A monthly Civisync print publication will supplement the website by offering feature articles on local artists, music, restaurants, sports, movies and much more including a comprehensive event calendar. This publication will be produced monthly and distributed at a wide variety of locations across the Peoria Metro area.

Civisync is slated to launch their website and print publication on June 1st, 2010. To sign-up for updates and pre-registration notification, go to www.civisync.com and fill out the information form.
